Parrocchia di Santa Maria di Castello

Category: Sacred Sites
business description: The church stands on the ancient fortifications of the Rovereto district, the original nucleus of the city. Built in its current form between 1476 and 1545, it is a fine example of Lombard late Gothic architecture. The brick façade is divided into three parts and embellished with a Renaissance stone portal adorned with bas-reliefs. The interior, in a Latin cross plan, is divided into three naves by cruciform pillars supporting cordoned vaults. The church boasts a rich collection of artistic works: a wooden Crucifix (15th century) attributed to Baldino di Surso; the group of ten polychrome terracotta figures entitled Lamentation over the Dead Christ, attributable to the Lombard cultural sphere of the 16th century; and the 17th-century wooden choir. The masonry remains of two older religious buildings are open to visitors: an early medieval hall church with a large apse (8th-9th century) and a second church with a tri-apse layout from the Carolingian era (11th century). To the left of the church lies the cloister (15th-16th century), whose refectory houses a large Crucifixion, a 1520 fresco by Timoteo da Vercelli.
